Learning to Teach
Programme for Doctoral Teaching Assistants at ETH Zurich

“How can I make sure students understand what I’m trying to say?”

“How can I get students to answer my questions?”

“How should I deal with students from different backgrounds?”

“How can they really complete the tasks I set them?”

Educational Development and Technology (LET)
Are you teaching a course or supervising exercises, lab work or excursions? Do you have questions like these? Attend the Learning to Teach programme and get answers.

Who is Learning to Teach for?
The Learning to Teach programme is designed for Doctoral Teaching Assistants from all ETH departments.

How can Learning to Teach help you?
Learning to Teach will help you to
- Design targeted learning activities
- Use feedback for teaching and learning
- Get familiar with tools for teaching

What does participation in Learning to Teach require?
Participants must
- Complete an online phase
- Attend three classroom days
- Write a teaching project report

What do participants say?
“My attitude towards teaching changed.”

“In this course, I experienced the difference that good teaching can make.”

Information, current dates and registration
www.let.ethz.ch/schulung →

Contact persons
Dr. Pia Scherrer, Programme Coordinator
pia.scherrer@let.ethz.ch, Tel. +41 44 632 70 66
Katherine Hahn Halbheer, Programme Administration
katherine.hahn@let.ethz.ch, Tel. + 41 44 632 42 83