1. Should consider how relevant of regional cooperation:
   - Evaluation for the 2013-2016 period
   - Decision to be made for the 2017-2020 period

For these, we should look upon both institutional and national levels.

2. To evaluate the regional cooperation foe 2013-2016, some following questions should be addressed:
   - What’s kind of cooperation exist?
   - Why we need regional cooperation?
   - Which areas of regional cooperation we want to promote?
   - How do we want to make regional cooperation?
   - What should be lesson learnt?

In the past duration, many projects have been done. These projects focused on issues related to food and food security, water, health.

We should check how well have these projects been done?

3. Decision to be made for the 2017-2020 period: Recommendations:
   - We need to set up framework for regional cooperation in Southeast Asia. On this perspective, we need to look for themes for regional cooperation to be done in the next period. Some suggestions: climate change, migration crisis (in ASEAN context).
   - Regional cooperation in conducting scientific research needs to be concluded in the agenda of ASEAN.
   - To promote regional cooperation in conducting research, we need a governing body to govern and manage cooperation activities (may be base in Switzerland).
   - Set up joint projects between 5 countries (with themes defined above)
   - Working mechanism: include private sector to participate in joint research project/internship program. Further, more stake holders (both domestic and abroad) should be included into conducting joint projects, e.g. society, universities, etc. in public-university-society relation.
